2 Characteristics in brief:

As a practice-oriented, specialized technical journal, Tunnel devotes itself to the planning and construction as well as research, technical equipment installation, maintenance and refurbishment of all underground structures.

Tunnel construction cannot be regarded solely from a national point of view. Almost all related themes are of comprehensive international interest. That is why Tunnel is a bilingual publication in English and German; all articles are translated and reproduced competently in full length. The journal is distributed internationally, in conformity with current building events.

New structures and maintenance of existing tunnels will comprise a large part of future building activities and represent an appropriate main point of emphasis in the reports.

As "Official organ of the Studiengesellschaft für unterirdische Verkehrsanlagen e.V." (STUVA = Research Association for Underground Transportation Facilities), Cologne, the Tunnel is a member of the IVW circulation audit.
